GREAT FAIR THIS YEAR

Wild West Show, Street Parade, Flying Races, Balloon Ascension, Live Stock Exhibit From State College, Excellent Baseball, Special Trains Thursday.

Every detail has been completed to assure the success of the County Fair to be held the coming week. The management announce that the exhibits will be larger in every department than ever before.

As an additional attraction, if not the greatest in the line of amusements, the association has contracted with The Fashion Plate United Shows to exhibit on the grounds the entire week. They carry with them eight big shows, featuring Col. Adams' Diamond A Wild West Show, which carry 25 head of horses, including the $5,000 high school horse, cowboys and cowgirls and long-horned steers. The show gives a grand street parade through the principal streets of Bedford at 10 o'clock each morning with their cowboy band leading the parade. They also have a 3 abreast carryall and a big motor drome with two of the most daring riders in the world.

The latest and most popular amusement in large cities is the Cabara Show. Wallack and Reno, the managers of The Fashion Plate Shows, are the first and only people who ever presented the Cabara Show on a fair ground. These shows will arrive in Bedford Saturday evening on their special train, consisting of four seventy-foot cars and two coaches. Between two and two hundred and fifty people make up this show. This show furnished the same attractions which will be on our Fair Grounds at the great New York State Fair and at the Industrial Exposition at Rochester, N. Y., this year.

Don't forget the races. They promise to be the best ever held in the county. A large number of horses will compete for the liberal purses offered by the association. Three races each day of the Fair.

Balloon ascension each day and many other free attractions going on all the time. Don't forget the Live-stock Exhibit coming from State College, which will bring with them a carload of cattle, sheep and swine; something of interest to everybody.

Baseball each day. All good games. You owe it to yourself as well as your family to take the time off and see this Fair, not one day, but all three. The association has never failed to show everything they advertise and you will not be disappointed. Your neighbor will be there and you are expected.

Special trains will be run on Thursday. One will leave Altoona at 7 a. m. and return at 6 p. m. Another will leave for Saxton at 8 p. m.

Bedford's Biggest Store Springs a Real Surprise

Decorated in all the artistic beauty of a big city store and prettier than anything ever before witnessed in this county, Mr. Slaughenhoupt threw open the doors of his establishment last Thursday to the eager people of Bedford County. Splendid music, handsome ferns, a big selection of new merchandise, a big selection of new Modern Suit and Cloak Department and many other things caused the people to acclaim in one voice that Mr. Slaughenhoupt is the one real merchant in this section. To him is due all the credit of giving the folks of Bedford the really Best and Biggest Store in this section. No one has ever shown a finer or better selection of suits, cloaks and furs and no store has ever offered high grade goods so reasonable.

Many distinguished visitors came with Mr. Slaughenhoupt from Pittsburgh and he also had an expert ladies' suit fitter with capable assistants to take care of the trade. If the people of this section show their appreciation of Mr. Slaughenhoupt's efforts, he stands ready to give them one of the best stores in this section of Pennsylvania, adding still more departments and a still larger and better stock.

GREAT CONTEST STILL GOING ON

Nearly All Answers Correct--The Contestants All Generous and Make Our Work Easy by Arranging Correctly. A Few Do Not Clip Out Enough of Coupon. Leave the Number of Contest Page on Clipping

The great contest for the missing words creates a great interest. It reminds one of the old time interest in the "olde tyme spellin' bee." Every one reads the pages over and over and then sends in the coupons. You are a winner if you have the pluck to stick like many of those who write to us. "There is no such thing as luck; it takes genuine bull-dog, old Teutonic pluck." There is no chance in this contest. The words are there and their omission breaks the English of the sentence. When you find the English broken then you have the word.

The slips are arranged very convenient for us but some contestants do not clip out enough of the Coupon. Leave the number of the contest page on your return slip.

What the Missing Words Were for Second Week

The missing word left out of page one was lighted and was omitted from between the words electrically and and in L. D. Blackwelder's advertisement.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

Celebrate Fortieth Anniversary of Institution Last Thursday Night.

Bedford Lodge, No. 436, Knights of Pythias, celebrated the fortieth anniversary of the institution of the lodge Thursday night of last week. At 7 o'clock a special session was held in the Castle Hall, Chancellor Commander H. R. Brightbill presiding. Besides a large number of the members present, Supreme Chancellor Brigs S. Young of Ada, O.; Grand Chancellor Benjamin Moore of Bellevue; Supreme Representative Harry A. Thompson of Tyrone and Supreme Representative H. Oscar Kline of Pittsburgh were in attendance. Mr. Kline is a member of the local lodge, being a member of the order for about forty-five years, and it was mainly through his efforts that the Bedford Lodge was organized and instituted forty years ago. The lodge still has a number of other charter members on its roster.

In the lodge room, Messrs. Young, Moore, Thompson and Kline made interesting and instructive addresses, followed by a convocation held by the Grand Chancellor when a number of Past Chancellors received the Grand Lodge Rank.

At 9 o'clock the members adjourned to the Union Hotel where all, along with their wives, daughters and friends, enjoyed a sumptuous banquet prepared for them. Following is the menu:

Fruit Compote	Puree of Tomato
Celery	Olives
Cold Ham	Sliced Tomatoes
Roast Bedford County Turkey	Cranberry Sauce
Mashed Potatoes	Candied Sweet Potatoes
Chicken Salad	Sweet Wrinkled Peas
Caramel Ice Cream	Fancy Assorted Cake
Cream Cheese	Butter Thins
Salted Nuts	After Dinner Mints
Coffee	Cigars

At the conclusion of the banquet, Mr. Kline acting as toastmaster, made a few remarks regarding the night forty years ago and introduced Supreme Chancellor Young who spoke on "The Golden Jubilee of Our Order." He was followed by Grand Chancellor Moore, who spoke on "Our Grand Domain, and the toast to the ladies was assigned to Supreme Representative Harry A. Thompson. The addresses were well received and highly appreciated by all present.

Mrs. Moore accompanied her husband and was present at the banquet.

A Successful Opening

The fall opening of Ladies' Suits, Coats, etc., of the Harold S. Smith Company's store, which closed on the 19th, was one of the best of its kind ever held in Bedford. The opening was attended by persons from all sections of the county, and hundreds of beautiful garments were displayed and sold. The line of goods shown equalled any of the large city stores, both in variety and quality. With the first fifty suits or coats sold, a beautiful silk waist was given free to each purchaser, and it is needless to say, they went fast. Everybody who attended the opening was highly pleased with the courteous treatment received and with the exceptionally low prices asked for the garments.

The store has received another large invoice of ladies' wearing apparel. We take pleasure in calling attention to the large ad in this week's paper, last page of Section 2, announcing the arrival of the new coats and suits for ladies, as well as a large line of suits, overcoats, shoes, furnishings, etc., for men. Be sure to read the ad and pay the store a visit while attending the big Fair next week.

Destructive Fire

Wednesday morning fire destroyed quite a lot of property in the western section of Bedford. A bonfire in a neighboring yard, it is thought, set fire to the stable on the property of E. M. Smith on Spring Street, and in a short time the carpenter shop and lumber warehouse of John W. Davidson on the rear of his lot on West Pitt Street, on the opposite side of the alley from Smith's stable, was on fire, and also the large stable and garage of Ed. D. Heckerman. Miss Heckerman succeeded in getting her Overland car out before it was more than slightly damaged, and the stable of Mrs. Holderbaum was badly damaged.

A strong wind and very low water supply gave the firemen a hard fight, but they succeeded in keeping the flames confined to the three buildings. Mr. Davidson had just recently placed a lot of lumber in his building, most of which was destroyed, together with most of his carpenter tools and a chest of tools belonging to Frank Wise.

Dedictory Services

The new Mt. Pleasant Lutheran Church, near Mattie, Bedford County, will be dedicated on Sunday, October 18. Services forenoon and afternoon. Dedictory sermon by Rev. Matter of Everett. This church supplants the one burned a couple years ago and is a handsome brick structure worthy of the community interests and is a great inspiration to the many good people in that section.

Cabaret Show for Bedford

The cabaret show which is part of The Fashion Plate United Shows, which will appear at the Fair next week, are to give special prepared programs at the Hoffman Garage restaurant every night during the week. This show comes highly recommended and will give only high class cabaret entertainment, as seen in the best city restaurants. Change of program every night, and admission free.

ATTENDANCE AT ELECTIONS

In spite of all the efforts that are made to liberalize the elections, and to encourage the voters to take part in them, the reports from a number of States this fall are that these meetings are not well attended. Of course the war has, in a way, swept politics out of the spot-light. But government must go on in this country, war or no war. As usual, a high price will be paid for misgovernment.

The attitude of people who refuse to attend and vote at elections is not a little incomprehensible. They are usually good citizens in other respects. They reverence the flag of the country, and they are loyal to the State and home town.

But when it comes to the onerous task of spending a half hour at the voting booth, to do their part toward making their State and country powerful and efficient, they are not there.

A great many of these people are very keen critics of present methods of government. They take the bosses with withering sarcasm. They say, "It was no use to go." Even if there is a contest, they want to show their contempt for the whole system by staying away.

Funny, isn't it? In order to spite the bosses, they do just what the bosses want. As long as men like them stay away, the bosses will retain control.

If a man's time is so valuable, if his public spirit is so feeble, if his mind is so sluggish, that the fateful and stealthy struggles of politics have no interest to him, and he feels that he can not spare the few moments necessary to attend the election, he has no room to complain of high taxes, grafting, useless spending of public funds. The present system of extravagance in Pennsylvania is the result of indifference on the part of the voter, all classes of generally good citizens staying at home. We can't do it that way. The thieves want just such citizenship as that. They encourage it. As Shakespeare says, "Don't be a clam, if you have to be anything of the kind, be a mud turtle and then you will have some snail about you. It is at election that the real fate of good government or bad government is decided."

WOMEN AT WORK IN THE FIELDS

One of the features of the news from Europe is the way in which the women of the warring countries have turned out in the fields to cultivate and harvest the crops, while the men are fighting. The sight of women doing farm work in this country was once considered incongruous and primitive. In Europe it has always been common. The majority of the aliens who do servile work in this country no doubt used to hoe and rake and mow in the old country.

Of recent years, as foreign labor has come to the United States, it is not so unusual to see women doing farm work. In many districts, as you go along a country road, you observe a baby carriage drawn up by the side of the way, in sight of the mother, who is laboriously helping her husband found the family fortunes.

Also many women of American descent have been learning during the past few years that there is an opening for them in many departments of farm work. Market and fruit gardening are such chances. The high price of meat has created an enormously increased demand for farm vegetables and kindred products.

Many a school teacher who has left the farm to work for $400 a year in some high-cost-of-living town, would have done better to start a little enterprise of raising vegetables or fruits in her own back yard. With the labor of a man available, for lifting heavy weights, and the present facilities in machinery, there is nothing in farm work that is not easily within the capacities of women. It is probably true that the average farmer depends very much for his business success on his wife's judgment.

If women go into farming more, they will be turning from callings that are overcrowded, into one in which the world is crying for the product. It always pays to work in a field where the demand exceeds the supply. The agricultural schools are reporting this fall that many women are taking their courses of study. Perhaps the sight of the millions of Europe's women, who are finishing this year's harvest, may inspire others in this country to choose this opening.

CRUELTY OF WAR

When the American troops landed in Vera Cruz, which city they are soon to evacuate, they encountered a murderous gang of snipers. Yet they undertook no reprisals, save to attack a few buildings where the assailants were sheltering. They at once assumed a task of friendly good nature, clearing up the town and letting loose prisoners from a pestiferous jail.

The ghastly tale of outrages asserted against the warring soldiers of Europe seems strangely in contrast. The various governments are now engaged in firing charges and counter charges against each other of savage and medieval practices.

This difference deepens one's pride in American achievement and American character. Wherever our soldier and sailor boys go, they seem to be gentlemen, protectors of the weak, chivalrous toward a foe.

American life, with its free schools and democratic feeling, raises the ordinary man to a level previously and elsewhere unknown. European culture may develop its educated classes to a type just as high as our best facilities can produce.

But the final test of national institutions is this: What are they doing for the average man, the artisan of the city, the lonely farmer in his fields, and the miner in his shaft?

In an American school, all kinds of boys come in contact with refined teachers. At our national game of baseball and other sports, they learn lessons of fair play. In the army and navy, they do not break loose in the hellish work reported from the battlefields of Europe. They are still the good sports one sees on the ball ground, ready to give and take without personal rancor. Europe produces no such spirit of the training of the average man, but is turning loose hordes of undisciplined roughs ready for arson and outrage.

Try a Gazette want ad; they bring results.

GEOGRAPHY AND THE WAR

About the only way most people learn geography is by traveling, or through being interested in a war. As the majority of people travel little, and wars are exceptional, most people know little about geography. The comments one hears on the war in Europe show surprising ignorance, considering that every one has studied the subject in school.

It is rather remarkable that the old fashioned schools did give so much attention to geography. The "Three Rs" were distinctly practical. People studied "Readin," "Ritin," and "Rithmatic," because otherwise they could not engage in business or earn a living.

But it is perfectly possible to earn a good living, and be useful, popular, or successful, and yet to know practically nothing about geography. Here, for once, the Little Red School House looked at life in a broad light. It taught geography, not as a money earning study, but merely for its value in wider intelligence.

Geography is easy enough to learn, but hard to remember. It is a string of unrelated facts, bound together by no ties of logic, and drops out of sight in the mind like a pebble in the ocean. Was there one person in a hundred, who previous to the recent fighting, could have located the Vosges mountains? Or was there one in a hundred, who could have placed correctly the city of Louvain, now destined for a fiery immortality?

Geography is a broadening study, and it ought to be taught so that people will remember more about it. Mere lists of names of rivers, mountains, cities, are as elusive as the morning dew. If its main facts can somehow be connected with a human interest feature, they may stick longer in the mind. If young people can be helped to associate a city or a river or a mountain with certain dramatic events of history, it would be helpful to memory.

MAKING CHILDREN THINK

There is no end of discussion as to what courses of study shall be taken up by the schools. Different views are expressed, ranging from the bare outlines of the old time "Three R's," to the most elaborate idea of culture study, or more practical forms of teaching hand work and home arts.

Meanwhile, there is one great essential running for all instruction. That is, that children be taught to think things out for themselves. Almost any course of study is good if this power is given.

As the routine teacher looks at it, it is her duty to see that her pupils commit certain lessons to memory. A child recites a passage of history, and if he misses one or two words, he is completely off the track, and cannot recover himself. In a few weeks at best, all recollection of the events described has passed out of the pupil's mind, and nothing has been accomplished.

The way in which geometry has been taught in many high schools is a case in point. Pupils would rise and recite by heart certain theorems and demonstrations. These had no practical value, save as they led pupils to think out the argument for themselves. Most of them did not do so. They got no mental training out of it, save a little practice in memorizing. Had they had to work out original demonstrations for themselves, there would have been practice in the art of a personal solving of problems.

Arithmetic, as it was studied in the older schools, was not especially practical. An enormous amount of time was spent on square and cube root, and combinations of fractions that occur but few times in real life. But at least these old tanglers and teasers of the text books made pupils think for themselves.

Life is all a school. Each day has its problem. The one who wins is the one who acquires the power of thinking out a problem correctly. If the schools are good, the pupils get practice daily in this one great essential of life.

PENROSE OPPOSES SOLDIERS' PENSIONS

Do the old soldiers of Bedford County know that United States Senator Penrose is opposed to their welfare in the matter of pensions? A. Mitchell Palmer, who is a candidate to succeed Penrose, tells this on the stump and Penrose has refused to answer it. In fact he cannot answer it. The Congressional Record shows his vote. Penrose has been howling for years his friendliness to the army of our old soldiers. "Our boys in blue," but when the final touch down came he was found against them. The bill which Congressman Palmer cites was a bill to give every soldier $30.00 pension no matter how long he had been in service. The bill was a good one. Our soldiers are becoming too old and feeble to longer quibble over time served and the relief sought is not that of superiority in point of time but ample sustenance in decrepit old age. What old soldier can conscientiously vote for Penrose?

There was another amendment offered which provided that no soldier who received an income of $2,400 or more a year was to receive a pension and the money to be paid to that party of good financial support and means was to go to the poorer and more needy class. Penrose opposed that measure too, thus slapping the poorer soldiers in the face and giving the wealthy ones more pork.

No old soldier in Bedford County would be cut out of a pension under such a law, but on the other hand, many or all would get increases from it. Can you, old soldier, support a man, a public official who flaunts you like that? Take off your party cloak, Democrat, Republican or Progressive, and give that proposition a square look. You are old and need care and attention. We know that. You know it. Penrose says the rich men need it and you can go on eking out your existence on the same old footing. What are you going to do? Walk up to the polls and throw another Senatorial cloak around him who says you shall shiver in the cold and hunger for bread while he makes ample and more ample provision for those who are in vigorous circumstances? I would not do it! I would not do it!!

THIS IS PENROSE

THIS IS PENROSEISM

The Movement for Buying Cotton

To the Southern cotton grower, forced by the war to sell his product at a price below cost of production, ruin seems imminent. Losses from such forced sales will not be limited to one section. The demand for Northern manufactured goods and Western food products must fall in sympathy.

To meet this situation the "Buy a bale of cotton movement" was started. The Washington society women are to have a fashion show of costumes made of cotton goods.

Women who have been using imported fabrics will find these goods costing higher this year than ever. If they would each buy a dress or two of some form of cotton material, in place of foreign made textiles, a home demand would be created that would go far to relieve the situation.

Cotton is often looked at as a cheap material, an adulterant. It is the least expensive of all the great fabrics. Yet it is capable of infinite beauty of treatment. The workers of India turn out cotton so fine that a pound of thread is 115 miles long. They make fabrics so sheer and delicate that when spread on the grass and covered with dew, they are invisible.

As a substitute for wool clothing, cotton is considered to lack warmth. Yet the fact that it is so very largely used in place of wool shows the adaptability of the material.

The worst of the cotton crisis could be worked off at home, without injuring home industries that produce other fabrics, simply by buying cotton products instead of imported textiles. The American people must stand together in this period of unprecedented strain. There is no sense in paying high prices for foreign made goods, when an American material, capable of all the beauties of good craftsmanship, is going begging.

Henry C. Niles Out For Palmer and McCormick

Henry C. Niles, the well-known independent reformer, of York, who was chairman of the Lincoln Party in 1906, and has been active in every contest against Penroseism since that time, has announced his endorsement of the Palmer-McCormick ticket, and has accepted appointment as a member of the Campaign Committee of the Independent Republican Committee, formed by the leaders of the Dimick movement in support of Palmer and McCormick.

His position is explained in the following letter, written to the Secretary of the Independent Republican League, recently organized in favor of Mr. Pinchot's candidacy:

York, Pa., September 14, 1914.
Romain C. Hassrick, Esq.,
Secy. Anti-Penrose Rep. League,
805 Witherspoon Building,
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

My dear Mr. Hassrick:
I am much obliged for your favor of September 11th and assure you I appreciate the compliment involved in the invitation to become a member of the Executive Committee of the Anti-Penrose Republican League.

I fully agree with and applaud the purpose of your organization.

The correctness of your statement needs no argument that: No greater civic service could be rendered Pennsylvania than to remove Penrose as a potent political factor; together with the system which he represents.

After much consideration, I am forced to the conclusion that the most hopeful way to accomplish this object this year is to support Mr. Palmer's candidacy.

Therefore, it would be inappropriate for me to serve upon your committee.

In my view, a vote for Mr. Pinchot will be half a vote against Penrose; and is so far good.

It seems to me wiser to vote directly for Palmer, which will be twice as effective against Penroseism as would be a vote for Pinchot.

Our desires are the same; and it is with diffidence that I express this opinion, which differs from that of many of my valued friends and co-workers in the cause of reform in Pennsylvania politics.

Believing in the ultimate success of the cause of honest government, I am,
Sincerely yours,
(Signed) Henry C. Niles.

"The Day of Great Things"

The President of the United States will make no campaign speeches. In an address to the people as simple and elegant in its English as it was forceful and irresistible in its logic, the chief executive outlined his plans for the immediate future.

"This is the day of great things" and the President, actuated by the high spirit of patriotism which has dominated his actions ever since he assumed the guidance of the nation's affairs, is determined that the country shall not suffer through even a temporary diversion from its interests.

President Wilson has been tried as perhaps no President since Abraham Lincoln. He has been forced to put in the background the most sacred personal affairs that he might serve the nation to the utmost of his mental ability and physical strength. He was not permitted even the time for the expression of grief over the loss of his best beloved, which falls to the lot of the humblest citizen. Grim duty beckoned him and he answered.

Now, all his energies are being bent toward saving his country from the snares into which she might easily fall through incompetency. Politics fades into insignificance in view of the weighty things which are transpiring in Europe, and which indirectly affect the United States.

President Wilson believes in personal service and self-sacrifice, if necessary. To that end he is making politics subservient to the great questions which daily clamor for solution.

The President's appreciation of the eternal fitness of things will be appreciated by friend and foe alike. It is a relief to know that in these days of stress and strain the pettiness of politics is not to be aired by the chief executive of the United States, and that personal ambition is not to have precedence over service to country.—The Meriden (Conn.) Morning Record (Rep.).

Sayings of Great Leaders

Dr. Sir Frederick Treves, F. R. S. C., of London, the physician of the late King Edward VII., and perhaps the greatest medical authority in the Empire in a recent speech as reported at Windermere, said: "All alcohol is distinctly a poison with certain uses like other poisons but limitations on its use should be as strict as on arsenic, opium or strychnine. It is simply preposterous to say that any young healthy person need any alcohol whatever. Having spent the greater part of my life in operating, I would say with Sir James Paget that of all people, those I dread most to operate on are drinkers. I hope what I have said will help my hearers to answer such absolute fallacies as 'a glass of port can do no harm.'"

THIS ADMINISTRATION IS STRICTLY ON THE JOB

The President's Letter to Chairman Doremus Declining to Make Political Speeches This Fall and Announcing His Intention to Remain at His Post of Duty Commended by Members of All Parties.

Washington, D. C., September 28.—The President's decision to remain at his post of duty, and not to engage in political speech-making during the fall campaign, as indicated in his letter to Hon. F. E. Doremus, the Chairman of the Congressional Campaign Committee, seems to have delighted everyone. The editorial approval of the President's decision is as strong as Bull Moose and Republican as in Democratic papers. The sympathies of the American people are with the President, who has devoted a most strenuous year and a half to constant performance of duty. Editorial comment given herewith tells its own story:

Back to the Homely Virtues!

"My job, I now know, can be done best only if I devote my whole thought and attention to it and think of nothing but the duties of the hour. I am not at liberty, and shall not be, so far as I can now see, to turn away from those duties to undertake any kind of political canvass."—President Wilson.

This extract from President Wilson's letter to Congressman Doremus, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, is a striking illustration of the high importance of homely, familiar virtues.

At this critical moment the duty which lies nearest to the President of the United States is that which lies nearest to most of us all the days of our life—that of attending carefully and conscientiously to the business confided to us.

The practice of these homely virtues makes great things possible. Governments are run efficiently by men who stick to their jobs. Nations are kept right in critical moments, not by flashes of inspiration, but by steady attention to business.

The glamour about statesmanship is misleading. Because a man holds a high office it doesn't follow that there is anything in his methods beyond the reach of the average mind—that he has mysterious ways of doing great things known only to the elect.

When all is said and done it reduced itself to the homely methods of business of everyday life—to the old rules of attention, industry and common sense that are the common property of men—to the familiar virtues that we are too apt to depreciate.

The men who do great things stick to the job more closely than their fellows. They concentrate their efforts more resolutely on the most important thing at hand. They are more determined not to be discouraged or distracted from the main point. That is all—and that is greatness.

What would this country have been without the sturdy common sense of George Washington, without Jefferson's trust in the good sense and the good intentions of the plain man, without the resolute patience of Abraham Lincoln?

Let Congress follow the President's good example! It has a golden opportunity to serve the country by the practice of another homely virtue. We are not so great that economy can be despised, nor so rich that we need not cut off unwise expenditures.

Let Democratic Congressmen dedicate themselves anew to the "economy" they have so long preached! Let them remember that their party was never more virile or more in the nation's confidence than when it made the issue of "retrenchment and reform!"

Homely virtues made this nation and homely virtues can save it from all the mischances that the present or the future threaten.—Chicago Herald.

Staying on the Job

"America is greater than any party. * * * Parties will fare well enough without nursing if the men who make them up and the men who lead them forget themselves to serve a cause, and set a great people forward on the path of liberty and peace."

"This is the spirit that breathes throughout President Wilson's letter to Congressman Doremus, in which he tells why he must decline to engage actively in the Democratic campaign this year. It is the spirit of patriotic service, of service to the whole people, so strongly exemplified by the President throughout his official career. It is the spirit which declared that that party serves itself best that serves the country best and which forgets self-interest in working for the common good.

The President, in his own homely language, will "stay on the job." His job, as he sees it, is to stay in Washington and face the serious responsibilities that the war abroad has placed upon those who have been chosen by the American people to administer their Government, to advance their prosperity and to preserve for them the blessings of peace. The nation has suddenly been confronted with new problems, in which questions of party have no place. These problems must be met wisely, unselfishly and in all harmony, with full confidence that the people will justly appraise the work of their servants.

"This is a time when America expects every man to do his duty without thought of profit or advantage to himself. Here is a broad hint to those members of Congress who have been too busy seeking re-election to attend to their public duties, who have been more solicitous for their own advantage than for the public welfare. The people will not forget to reward those of their Representatives who stay with Wilson 'on the job' at Washington, nor will they fail to remember those who have deserted their posts to advance their own interests. From this time on it will pay every Congressman to 'stay on the job.' President Wilson's letter is worth more to his party than a thousand campaign speeches.—Newark News.

A Healthy Sign

The Philadelphia Public Ledger, the influential Republican paper in Philadelphia, repudiates the candidacy of Boies Penrose for re-election to the Senate, and has declared its favor of the election of Hon. A. Mitchell Palmer, the Democratic nominee.

Mr. Palmer is a credit to American public life, and there ought not to be any question about his election to the Senate. He has made his record and achieved his reputation on the broad stage of the nation's public life. Every State in the Union is interested in the contest this able public servant is making for election to the Senate. The Public Ledger said, among other things, in its editorial recently:

"A. Mitchell Palmer, the Democratic candidate for United States Senator, is a man of high character and fine ability. While he espouses economic policies to which the Public Ledger does not subscribe, which it believes are not most conducive to the industrial interests of the State yet he possesses many qualities which are the antitheses of the offensive political ethics represented by Senator Penrose.

"The present is the time when Penroseism and the corrupt political machine of which he is the incarnation should be resolutely smashed, because then the hope of a regenerated and re-inspired Republican party will become an exigent fact."

Our President!

Woodrow Wilson stands today as the only man on earth exercising power outside of his own country. In more than a figurative sense he is the temporary ruler of the world. All hope of the restoration of peace, sooner or later, must rest with him.

Meanwhile, the preservation of neutrality by America, the conciliation of Mexico, the success of all the nations of the earth depend upon his country. This prestige must be maintained and this power exercised by the Chief Magistrate.

We believe that Woodrow Wilson is equal to the emergency, but his burdens are heavy and his personal and public trials grievous to be borne. He needs help. He needs the help which every loyal heart in America can render him to a greater or lesser degree. Call the expression of that help prayers, or good wishes, or sympathy, or what you will, it is a vast force.

No true American in youth or age ought to withhold this aid to the President.—The Santa Cruz Surf.

"On the Job"

President Wilson did not submerge the personal note in his letter announcing his intention of remaining on the job as head of the nation, and, therefore, of taking no active part in partisan political contests. But that is of small consequence. We agree with the President that he is needed now as President.—Chicago Tribune (Bull Moose).

Healthy Hair, Soft, Fluffy and Radiant

Beautiful hair does not just happen to be so, but is always a matter of care and proper nourishment of the hair roots. No matter if your hair is falling out, stringy, lissless and full of dandruff, Parisian Sage, an expensive tonic, sold by all druggists, is all that is ever needed. It nourishes the hair roots and stimulates the growth of new hair. Even dandruff is entirely removed with one application, and itching scalp and falling hair cease; your hair will be bright, vigorous, soft and fluffy.

Whether your hair is oily, dry or brittle, Parisian Sage immediately removes the cause, and by toning up the scalp quickly restores the hair to its original brilliancy and vigor.

Parisian Sage can always be had from F. W. Jordan, Jr., and is a delightful and easily applied treatment that will never fail to act as a real and lasting benefit to your hair and scalp.—Adv.

Rainbow Signs in a Business Way

Three or four items of news that have not figures on the front page during the last day or two are a good deal more important to us in a business sense than the reports of desperate battle in Belgium and France. One was the statement published in a dispatch from Philadelphia that as a result of the rapidly increasing foreign demand for anthracite coal a number of collieries which were closed last spring are making preparations for early resumption. Thousands of men who have been out of work or on half time are promised full time. Orders for coal are pouring into Pennsylvania from every part of the globe. The Belgian and Russian coal fields are affected by the war, which has also curtailed the activity of the Welsh mines. Europe is calling for our coal, just as she is calling for our wheat.

Another encouraging item comes from Pittsburgh, which reports that the steel companies there are completing arrangements that are expected to develop a tremendous amount of actual business out of the wide inquiry for steel now steadily coming to them from Europe, South America and other countries. Within forty-eight hours inquiries for semi-finished steel, totaling more than 100,000 tons, had been received from England alone.

Another cheering note is sounded in a New York dispatch which points to the re-employment of large numbers of stevedores and ship laborers, indicating the gradual return of normal conditions in the commercial field.

All these are rainbow signs showing that the flood of business disturbance is beginning to abate. We are still short of ocean transportation, but we have got the foreign demand, we have got the goods to supply it, and we have the money to get the ships. Under the circumstances, it will be impossible to bottle up our commerce much longer. Its outward flow has, in fact, already been resumed to some extent. But it will not be long before it will be represented by a great armada of peaceful ships conveying to Europe and South America the food and the industrial products which they can get nowhere else.—Baltimore Sun.

IMPORTANT TO ALL WOMEN READERS OF THIS PAPER

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer a great deal with pain in the back, bearing-down feelings, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be dependent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

A good kidney medicine, possessing real healing and curative value, should be a blessing to thousands of nervous, over-worked women.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy, will do for them. Every reader of this paper, who has not already tried it, by enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at all drug stores.—Adv. 25 Sep 4t

October Lippincott's

The complete novel in this month's Lippincott's is extra long and extra good. "The Rose-Garden Husband" is its title, and the author is Margaret Widdemer, a young writer who seems destined to do big things. The short stories are also in the A1 class.

Then there are "Walnuts and Wine," Lippincott's always-looked-for department of wit and humor; and several creditable poems by popular singers. This month's financial article, by Edward Sherwood Mead, is called "The Ideal Preferred Stock."

Broad Top Township Schools Open

In accordance with a custom established by the teachers and directors of Broad Top Township some years ago, there was a preliminary meeting held in the high school building at Deafness on Saturday afternoon, September 19, which was attended by all five of the directors and by all of the teachers except one and she had a very good excuse for being absent. Following are the names of the teachers and of the schools to which each one has been assigned: Claude Mitchell, Principal, and Dorothy J. Miller, Assistant Principal of the high school; W. A. Miller, Mollie Collins and Chrissie B. Smith at Riddlesburg; Marion C. Edwards, Sydna M. Thomas, Adda Workman and Bird E. Rorabaugh at Deafness; Mary R. Taylor at Whited; Roxena V. Kline at Oak Grove; Edna M. Diehl at White Church; Nelle H. Brennen at Rocky Ford; F. E. McGahey and Ora M. McCabe at North Point; N. E. M. Hoover and Vera L. Barton at Finleyville; Ola S. Young at Round Knob; Blanche B. Smith at Kearney; J. Calvin Goshorn, Mary Shoenfelt and Rotha V. Oyler at Langdondale; O. R. McGahey at Sandy Run; R. Reed Edwards at Warsing; Mildred H. Thomas at Rinard, and Florence Rankin and Bertha Thoresen as Supplies.

Of the 25 teachers in charge of schools, 14 taught in the district last year two were former teachers in the district, six are entirely new in the district, and three are beginners. Again of the 25 teachers in charge, 12 are graduates from our own high school, two are college graduates, four are state normal graduates, one holds a county permanent certificate, nine hold professional certificates, and nine hold provisional certificates.

The meeting was called to order and presided over by Supervising Principal Brumbaugh who greeted the teachers, stated the object of the meeting, and gave instructions relative to the course of study, use of books and supplies, making up of reports, and the enforcement of the Vaccination and Compulsory Attendance Laws. These remarks were followed by addresses from Messrs. William Lauder, member of the State Board of Education and a member of the Broad Top Township school board, Prof. J. Allen Myers of Juniata College, Thomas Mosby, president of Broad Top Township school board, County Superintendent L. H. Hinkle, Prof. Mitchell and Miss Dorothy J. Miller. All of these speakers gave us wholesome advice which was well received by the teachers and, we believe, has given much help and encouragement to the teachers.

After listening to the speeches for about an hour the teachers proceeded to organize for local institute work. We must not forget to mention that Misses Mary Donaldson of Coal Dale Borough and Bess M. Young of Hopewell Borough were present and, as the teachers and directors of both these boroughs are members of our association, these ladies took part in the organization which resulted as follows: President, H. H. Brumbaugh; Vice President, Claude Mitchell; Recording Secretary, Mollie Collins; Assistant Recording Secretary, Ora M. McCabe; Editorial Staff, Adda Workman, Chief, W. A. Miller, Reed Edwards, Ora McCabe and Dorothy Miller; Treasurer, Sydna Thomas; Chorister, F. E. McGahey; Pianists, Mary Taylor and Vera L. Barton.

It was announced that the High School Alumni has arranged for a course of lectures and entertainments for the ensuing school term, relieving the teachers of the responsibility.

The treasurer reported that she has on hand about $55 in cash with which to begin the year's work.

It was voted to hold our first regular session of institute at Riddlesburg on the 10th day of October for which a program will be arranged by W. A. Miller, Marion C. Edwards and Mary E. Donaldson. F. E. McGahey, Bess M. Young and Roxena V. Kline were appointed to arrange a program to be executed at the November meeting.

The teachers and directors were much encouraged to have with them Superintendent Hinkle and they extended to him a standing invitation to attend their future meetings. This meeting was pronounced by all, whose opinion we heard expressed, to be the best preliminary meeting we have had for years and it is predicted that this is to be the most successful school term in the history of the schools of Broad Top Township.

Teachers, it is up to you. What do you say? What can you do toward helping the 1,037 boys and girls of Broad Top Township to form correct habits and noble ideals?

HOW TO GET STRENGTH

after any sickness is purely a matter of nourishment, whether the attack was an ordinary cold or severe illness; the weakened forces cannot repulse disease germs, and this is why a relapse is so often fatal or why chronic weakness often follows sickness.

Restoring strength to millions of people for forty years has proven the real need for taking Scott's Emulsion after any sickness; nothing equals it—nothing compares with it. Its pure, medicinal nourishment, free from alcohol or opiates, promptly creates rich blood; strengthens the nerves and lungs to avert tuberculosis.

DEMOCRATIC DELEGATION

Will Be Increased in Lower Branch of Congress at the Coming Election.

Harrisburg, September 28.—Broad claims of decided gains in the Democratic Congressional delegation from Pennsylvania are made in a statement issued by the Democratic State Headquarters yesterday. The Democratic leaders declared their expectation not only of holding practically every district now represented by a Democrat in the lower branch of Congress, but of increasing the Democratic delegation by at least six new members.

The statement said: "The progress of the Democratic campaign has demonstrated that the enthusiasm of the rank and file of the party and the confidence of the local leaders in victory is greater than at any time in years. The voters in the territory so far covered by the State candidates have responded to their appeal with tremendous spirit and enthusiasm."

"One of the outstanding features of the canvass is the constantly gaining strength of the Wilson administration, as indicated by the increasing prospects of success of the Democratic candidates for Congress, who stand upon the Wilson platform. It is not too much to say that there is scarcely a Congressional district in Pennsylvania, outside of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, which is not debatable ground. This is but a duplication of the fact proved in the Maine election, where Congressman McGillicuddy, a strong Wilson partisan, quadrupled his 1912 majority in the district formerly represented by Nelson Dingley, the author of the Dingley high protective tariff act."

"There is no good reason to doubt that every present Democratic district will return a Democratic Congressman. This is especially true from the fact that many of the Democrats were elected in 1912 against a combined opposition while this year they face a divided opposition or have the united support of Democrats and Progressives."

"There is but little doubt that the Lackawanna County district will take its place beside its neighbor, Luzerne, in the Democratic column. The vain efforts of Congressman Farr to straddle between standpatism and progressivism have alienated the support of both elements."

"In the Fifteenth district Democracy faces a divided foe, where it was but narrowly defeated against united opposition in 1912."

"In the Eighteenth district, the home district of our candidate for Governor, his astounding strength with all parties and the vigorous campaign that is being made in his behalf, as well as in favor of the local candidates will almost certainly retire 'Congressional Frank' Kreider to private life."

"The Twenty-first district is another in which the Democratic candidate faces a divided opposition instead of a fusion candidate, as in 1912. It is a practical certainty that the narrow majority of 2,000 votes in 1912 will be more than reversed."

"The Twenty-second district is another where there is only a narrow margin of 600 votes to overturn in these counties, while the successful Republican of 1912 also had the Washington endorsement."

"The Twenty-seventh district, which presented a united front against Democracy in 1912, this year has three candidates, including the very vulnerable S. Taylor North, Republican, whose strength is rapidly dwindling, to the advantage of the Democrat."

"The Twenty-eighth district, one of the few that elected Progressive representatives two years ago, is bound to return a Democrat this year, thereby overturning a narrow margin of 600 votes in a total of more than 30,000."

"There is a splendid chance for Democracy in the Seventh, Fourteenth and Twenty-fourth districts."

"A Democratic United States Senator from Pennsylvania, and a Democratic majority in its Congressional delegation, is no longer only a possibility. It has become a distinct probability, and as the campaign progresses will reach the point of certainty."

WHY INDEPENDENT REPUBLICANS SUPPORT PALMER AND MCCORMICK

There are more than one hundred thousand Independent Republicans in Pennsylvania, who firmly believe in the principles of the Republican party—the principles of liberty, justice and humanity, which gave it birth, and the party's principles of economics and government, — but who do not believe in the abuse of these principles by the group of men who control the Republican organization.

The political oligarchy which has developed in this State, of which Senator Penrose is the acknowledged head, has done more to bring the Republican party into disrepute and to destroy its usefulness as an instrument of good government than any other influence in the nation. The party has been practically divested of its great moving ideas of morality, honesty, justice, fairness, equal chance and human welfare, and has become the refuge of special privilege, corrupt business alliances, the liquor interests, and the various forces which always try to control government for selfish ends.

Under these conditions Independent Republicans find it impossible to support the party nominees for United States Senator, Governor, Lieutenant Governor and Secretary of Internal Affairs.

Senator Penrose is a candidate for re-election upon his record. The substance of his declaration as a candidate is that if re-elected he will be the same kind of a Senator in the future that he has been in the past. That is, that he will be as good as he has been. He should be given credit for being frank, even cynically frank, but there are thousands of Republicans in Pennsylvania who are ashamed of his record and will not vote to have him continued. If Senator Penrose represents what the Republican party now stands for, many who have always been Republicans and believe in its great principles of the past, can no longer support the Republican party.

Dr. Brumbaugh as an Independent candidate for Governor would appeal strongly to all Republicans but he placed himself under obligations to Senator Penrose and the organization before the primaries and is now urging the election of the Republican ticket, and declares that it would be treachery for him to do otherwise. It is well known that he had conferences with Senators Penrose and Oliver, and with Senator Vane and their organization leaders before he announced his candidacy for the nomination. It is foolish in him to avow that he has no "Entangling Alliances." He admits holding these conferences and even his interpretation of what transpired makes it clear to all who know the facts that Dr. Brumbaugh was the slated candidate of the organization by agreement with its leaders.

The men who control the organization got out of Dr. Brumbaugh all they wanted before they gave him the nomination, without any particular effort on his part. They were assured that he would be good, and go along. He said he knew nothing against Senator Penrose, and would not say anything against him until he did. While he declared to them his position on several subjects, he also agreed to support the ticket if nominated, and to lend his influence to secure another organization victory. The leaders were in hard straits. They were in bad need of respectability and popularity. As Dr. Brumbaugh would supply these qualities they were quite willing for him, personally, to stand for local option and to utter high sounding generalities in behalf of the common welfare.

Step by step the agreement which Dr. Brumbaugh made with Senators Penrose and Oliver at a friend's house in Philadelphia previous to the primaries is being carried out in this campaign. Having made a bar-

Bedford Citizens Should Read and Read This Advice.

Kidney trouble is dangerous and often fatal. Don't experiment with something new and untried. Use a tested kidney remedy. Begin with Doan's Kidney Pills. Used in kidney troubles 50 years. Recommended here and everywhere.

A Bedford citizen's statement forms convincing proof.

It's local testimony—it can be investigated. Miss Mary F. Wise, 147 Spring St., Bedford, Pa., says: "I suffered greatly from backaches and distressing pains through my kidneys. I couldn't stoop or lie anything without great pain and I also had severe headaches and dizzy spells. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and got the best of relief. They removed the backaches and pains in my kidneys and the headaches and dizzy spells left. The action of my kidneys also became regulated. ASTHMA AND HAY FEVER A GUARANTEED TREATMENT

"I have arranged with John R. Dull so that every sufferer from Asthma, Hay Fever or Bronchial Asthma in Bedford can try my treatment at once at my risk," Dr. Rudolph Schiffmann announces. He says: "Buy a 50-cent package of my Asthmador or Asthmador Cigarettes, try it, and if it does not afford you immediate relief, or if you do not find it the best remedy you have ever used, take it back to John R. Dull and he will return your money, cheerfully and without any question whatever. After seeing the grateful relief it has afforded in hundreds of cases, which had been considered incurable, and which had been given up in despair, I know what it will do. I am so sure that it will do the same with others that I am not afraid to guarantee it will relieve instantaneously. The druggists handling Asthmador will return your money if you say so. You are to be the sole judge and under this positive guarantee, absolutely no risk is run in buying Asthmador."

Persons living elsewhere will be supplied under the same guarantee by their local druggist or direct by Dr. R. Schiffmann, St. Paul, Minn. Advertisement.

gain with them, receiving the nomination hands down, being enthusiastically supported by the liquor element, praised by the Senators, the Governor and all organization leaders, it would be ungrateful for him to know or say anything against Senator Penrose. He must support the whole ticket. Verily Dr. Brumbaugh doth assert his independence too much. He is a past master at the art of dissimulation. In this campaign he is playing the role of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

There is nothing in the character or the record of Mr. McClain and Mr. Houck to appeal particularly to Independent Republicans for their support.

Independent Republicans do not agree with the Democratic party on the tariff but feel that the protection principle best conserve the interest of Pennsylvania and the nation. However, the issues in this campaign are greater and more fundamental than the tariff question. They are moral issues. It is a fight for honesty, truthfulness, justice, fairness and decency in governmental policy and the life of the Commonwealth.

Mr. Palmer and Mr. McCormick are men of unimpeachable integrity, high ideals, intellectual force and moral courage, which qualify them in an eminent degree to serve the State in the Senate and Governor's chair. They have fought consistently and successfully against corruption in the Democratic party in the State and Nation. They have broken the power of the bi-partisan organization. They have never abandoned principle for expediency. They represent the highest type of our citizenship. They exhibit a passion for political righteousness. They stand for the ideals and principles upon which depend the welfare of the Commonwealth and Nation. In this contest, therefore, between a corrupt Republican organization and these leaders of the new Democracy, a multitude of Independent Republicans will cast their votes for Mr. Palmer and Mr. McCormick in the conviction that by so doing they will best serve the interests of the State and the ultimate welfare of the Republican party.

BIGELOWISM AT WORK

A HINT TO DR. BRUMBAUGH.

Some imaginative editor has put forward the suggestion that Schoolmaster Brumbaugh is being groomed for President against Schoolmaster Wilson in 1916.

The suggestion brings to mind many interesting parallels, but chief among them is one that goes back to the campaign of Woodrow Wilson to be Governor of New Jersey. It will be recalled that when Woodrow Wilson first entered upon that epoch-making campaign in New Jersey, men were suspicious. An earnest-minded progressive, George L. Record, determined to end the doubt as to Wilson's sincere devotion to the ideals of progressive government for which he professed to stand. Record addressed a letter to Wilson, demanding categorical answers regarding his relations with certain political leaders who, for purposes of their own, were professing to support Wilson.

It was a crisis in Wilson's career, but he arose to the occasion as easily and as naturally as he has met every other problem that he has confronted in the last five years. Without evasion, without equivocation, and without hesitation, he answered every one of Record's inquiries categorically and emphatically. He declared his opposition to the system for which some of his sponsors stood; he openly announced his determination to use the power of his office, if elected, to drive out of leadership in New Jersey politics, and in New Jersey government, the forces which had so long dominated it, and the leaders which had brought it into discredit—some of them of his own party.

With one stroke he proved not only the sincerity of his own professions, but the sound courage of his convictions. It is not too much to say that the proof he there gave of strength, courage and sincerity made him Governor of New Jersey, where, by continued exhibition of the same high qualities, he rose to acknowledged leadership in the nation and became the choice of the people for chief magistrate.

Dr. Brumbaugh presents a striking contrast to this record. He, too, is laboring under the suspicion of being subservient to evil influences and selfish politicians. Unlike Dr. Wilson, in New Jersey, he has yet to show the slightest appreciation of the handicap under which he is laboring or of the aroused moral sentiment of the people, which demands a frank, clear answer to certain specific questions.

Dr. Brumbaugh has been challenged by his opponent, Vance C. McCormick, as Dr. Wilson was challenged by Mr. Record, to tell before election what his relations will be with the discredited leaders who procured his nomination and are energetically striving for his election. But Dr. Brumbaugh has ignored the challenge. He contents himself with vague and glittering generalities that mean nothing, and which could be as well spoken by the humblest tool of the Penrose machine.

He has yet to show that he appreciates, in the slightest degree, the evil and the menace of corrupt contractor-rule in Pennsylvania. He has yet to declare the slightest opposition to the system of politics that has degraded the Pennsylvania government and besmirched the name of the state throughout the country.

He did not lift a finger to secure a party organization and leadership favorable to the cause for which his friends say he stands. He did not enter a single protest against the selection as chairman of the Republican committee of a man notoriously associated with, and obedient to, the most vicious influences in Pennsylvania industrial and political life. He continues to accompany through the state a man who is responsible more than any other single individual, for the evils in our public life, and who typifies to the whole country the most sordid and reactionary influences.

Dr. Wilson won the presidency through courage and consistency. Dr. Brumbaugh seeks to rise by silence, evasion and compromise.

Labor is on strike against grafting.

Why empty your pockets for Bigelowism?

PALMER VERSUS PENNYPACKER AND PENROSE.

Among the first of the Penrose followers to squeal when Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer levelled his guns at the Penrose record was our old friend, ex-Governor Samuel W. Pennypacker. He indignantly and vociferously denies the allegation that during his term as Governor he was subservient to the Penrose influence.

This characteristic Pennypackerism reminds one of those other interesting remarks of his to the effect that "Pennsylvania has no ills," and that "I know of no grafting; I do not like the term." It is characteristic of gang Governors that they dislike to discuss the shortcomings of the state government. Dr. Brumbaugh has already shown an inclination to follow in the beaten path of his predecessors in this respect by declaring that Pennsylvania is the best governed state in the Union.

Congressman Palmer has the data on this Pennypacker episode, and he will shortly present it to the jury of his fellow citizens, and in the meantime there are few in the state who will take seriously the denials of a man who sat idly in the Governor's chair while $9,000,000 was pilched from the people's treasury, and who during all his term never once resisted the pressure constantly applied in the interest of the Penrose machine.

Penroseism made coal dearer.

Penrose loves to see children work.

A WHOLE GOVERNOR.

Once upon a time Theodore Roosevelt said he would rather be a whole President one term than half a President two terms.

In a like spirit, Pennsylvanians prefer a whole Governor for a whole term.

A whole Governor is one that gives his services as chief executive to the people only.

He will not be for the people an insignificant part of the time and for the gangsters and the beneficiaries of special privilege the rest of the time.

He will be a free agent and not the puppet of a corrupt political machine.

That is the kind of a Governor Vance C. McCormick would be.

Mr. Palmer is clinching all of the fifty naves in the political coffin of Boss Penrose.

LABOR RECORDS OF CANDIDATES

The workmen of the state, who are its backbone, should inquire carefully into the records of the candidates before casting a vote for any of them. Let the workers refuse to be swayed by campaign promises, but examine the records and be guided thereby. They may be sure that a candidate who has been against labor is and will be against labor. Here are the records of the four leading candidates, which any reader may verify for himself:

PALMER'S RECORD.

Author of the Palmer bill (H. R. 12,292), which would prohibit child labor in the nation by excluding from interstate commerce the products of child factories, mines, etc.

An earnest supporter of employers' liability and workmen's compensation measures.

Procured an investigation of conditions of labor at the South Bethlehem steel plant, which resulted in higher wages and shorter hours there.

One of the earliest advocates of the creation of the Bureau of Mines and the extension of its activities to metal mines and quarries.

Helped to exclude labor unions and farmers' organizations from the operation of the anti-trust law.

Recommended enactment of federal and state compensatory laws for railway employees killed or injured while at work.

Supported the bill to promote the welfare of American seamen in the merchant marine, to abolish arrest and imprisonment for desertion, and to promote safety at sea by requiring better lifeboat equipment.

Author of a bill for the protection of slate workers.

Worked for the enactment of the law placing a prohibitive tax on white sulphur matches, which poisoned the workers and others.

Fought for better hours of labor and better pay for postal employees.

Helped to procure the pardon of an unfairly convicted labor leader.

M'CORMICK'S RECORD.

An employer of union workers, who pays them higher wages than are paid by other employers in the same business.

Helped to draft the workmen's compensation bill which was introduced in the Pennsylvania legislature last year.

In his newspaper, the Harrisburg Patriot, as well as personally, he supported the woman and child labor bills of the 1913 session of the legislature.

Exposed the treachery by which those bills and the mine dockage bill were emasculated or defeated.

Was vice president of the Pennsylvania Child Labor Association and an enthusiastic worker for child labor measures.

Received the unsolicited approbation of labor organizations.

Has kept every pledge and will keep all. Has pledged himself.

In favor of organized labor and extension of the eight-hour law.

Against use of state police or militia under control of employers in industrial disturbances.

For a workmen's compensation and employers' liability act.

For an honest law regulating child labor.

For better inspection of mines.

For appointment of a commission to study the wage question and conditions of employment.

Proper representation of labor in government departments having to do with industries.

PENROSE'S RECORD.

Ordered emasculation or defeat of labor legislation in the Pennsylvania legislature.

In the United States senate he voted against a motion to repeal all contract labor laws in force in the Hawaiian Islands.

Against an amendment of the Chinese exclusion bill providing for a fine for the employment on American vessels of Chinese not entitled to admission.

Against an amendment to the employers' liability act providing payment by employers to children of employees killed at work, until eighteen years old. He dodged the vote on passage of the measure.

Against the establishment of a bureau for the investigation of child welfare.

When Mr. Penrose was not voting directly against the interests of workers he was dodging. He failed to vote on an amendment providing that no common carrier should permit employees to remain in continuous service for more than sixteen consecutive hours.

Failed to vote on passage of the District of Columbia child labor bill, although he voted for an amendment which greatly weakened the measure by permitting children to work under special conditions.

Failed to vote on measure exempting labor unions and farmers' organizations from operation of the anti-trust law.

Failed to vote on resolution providing for investigation of conditions at the Paint Creek coal fields in West Virginia.

In short, he has not been for labor, but against it.

BRUMBAUGH'S RECORD.

Lock speed is a big element of success in making high scores at the trap or in the field.

When you pull the trigger you want it to go with lightning speed. Flying birds and targets will not wait for a hang fire load or a slow lock.

Our lock was carefully and scientifically timed at the University of Cornell.

Test was made by means of a fly wheel traveling 577.1715 inches per second. By means of a special device it was found that the fly wheel traveled 535 in. while hammer was falling. Dividing 535 by 577.1715 gives the time it took the hammer to fall, .00164 or expressed in fractional form, 1-625 of a second.

When the hammer struck it was traveling 233 inches per second.

We figure that this greased lightning speed will increase your score at least 5 per cent.

The slower the lock and the slower the load the farther you have to lead your birds.

WHAT THE GARDEN CONTESTS SHOW

A great many cities and towns have been holding garden competitions the past summer. Newspaper exchanges bring many reports of prizes awarded in these contests. It is often noted that children have won in these contests who never stood well in their book work in school.

Formerly the boy who could not learn lessons rapidly was set down as a blockhead. Yet the boy who does not take easily to books is often very adaptive in other ways. He frequently is ready of speech in the ordinary matters of daily life, tactful in what he says, with a gift for leadership and doing things.

In the old fashioned school, the boy who was dull at his books was prodded and spurred along the thorny path which he was never fitted to travel. Somehow he never could see things through the printed page. Put him out in a garden, and give him corn seed, hoe and spade, or put him on the ball ground, and he might raise a crop or play a game much superior to the bookish boy's.

Books are the record of the world's wisdom, but their use should not be over emphasized. Too much reading and study makes the boy overmuch of a spectator. His energy is satisfied by the thrill of reading how other boys do things. Meanwhile the dull boy is out selling his papers or raising his potatoes, and slowly winning his way.

Every school should have some outlet for the children who are slow at books. Home and school gardens are one of the most useful of these outlets. Dressmaking and cooking classes teach an art that lies at the foundation of home economy, and which the average mother fails to impart. To more than half of the boys, success in life is to be reached through skill of the hand rather than through the printed page.

SCRANTON ENTERTAINS

Big Sunday School Convention October 6, 7, 8 and 9, 1914.

The latest Sunday School statistics show Pennsylvania to be the greatest Sunday School State in the Union. A little better than one out of every four persons you meet in city, village or country attend Sunday School somewhere. In other words twenty-six per cent. of the people in the State are enrolled as Sunday School members.

The Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association is closing its fifty-second year of organized activity in stimulating Sunday School growth. This year the annual convention will meet in Scranton, Pa., October 6, 7, 8 and 9. The convention is advertised as "A Convention That's Different." Many new features will be introduced.

The program advertises a Sunday School Pageant, presenting in a series of episodes the development of the Sunday School idea from the time of the Patriarchs down to the present day modern graded Sunday School. Over three hundred persons will participate in rendering the pageant in song, tableau and story.

Every county will send its quota of delegates which is expected to total more than 2,000. Bedford County is entitled to twenty-four delegates. All Sunday School workers desiring to attend the convention should write to J. Reed Irvine, the County Secretary.

A uniform two-cent rate will prevail on all railroads. Round trip tickets can be procured, good going from October 4th and returning October 11th.

October

October always has been a busy month in history. In this month three years ago Madero was elected President of Mexico. Since then that country has sometimes had half a dozen presidents and sometimes none. In October 1871 occurred the disastrous fire in Chicago, but to see the city now one would not think anything had ever been destroyed there. The first overland mail was dispatched in October, 1838, traveling probably thirty-five miles a day. We now shoot it around underground at a rate of seventy miles an hour and still wonder why the mails are so slow. Columbus discovered America some five hundred years ago this month and his countrymen have been swarming into it ever since.

The first newspaper in New York City was printed in October, 1725. Now there is a paper for every three hundred residents in the town. The first pocket watch was made in October, 1510, was about the size of a pocket watch and even larger in actual value. Now our homes have a watch for every member of the family except when the tax assessor is due.

With chilly winds and changing skies October spreads before our eyes great fields of golden colored hues, and yet we men have got the blues. We realize the scenery's great, but something in our minds of late drive out the songs of nature's lyre—we must get up and build the fire.

Though poets sing of autumn and the artists lend their aid, it doesn't help us any when in nighties we parade from the bedroom to the kitchen in a chilly, mad desire to keep our bones together while we're starting up the fire.

School Hygiene

The study of conditions surrounding school life which may injuriously affect the growth and development of the child, and proper appreciation of the influence of physical defects on the intellectual capacity of the young, have until quite recently received little consideration in this country. The first attempt to exercise medical supervision of schools in the United States was by the city of Boston, in 1894, for the purpose of controlling the contagious diseases of childhood. From this beginning, the movement has developed until now most of our cities maintain a more or less comprehensive supervision over school hygiene and the medical inspection of school children is mandatory in a number of States and elective in some others.

In this respect we are considerably behind European countries, notably Germany and England, where the system of medical school supervision is more extensively developed, has been longer in operation and is practically national in character. That this is so is largely due to the fact that consideration of dirt, destitution and disease, has not been of such immediate importance with us, except in certain restricted areas.

School hygiene is a complex problem. Our knowledge of its principles is greatly in excess of their practical application. The position of school medical officer presupposes, in addition to thorough training in physiology, a practical working knowledge of the physics of heat, light and ventilation, and an ability to recognize and coordinate the physical and educational needs of the developing child.

The need of skilled services and the expense incident thereto have been instrumental in restricting the practice of school hygiene largely to urban communities. This is unfortunate, because the great bulk of the school population of this country is as yet scattered over the rural districts.

The disproportionate prevalence of preventable diseases among urban and rural populations is not great; the necessity, therefore, of educating rural communities to the exercise of sanitary precautions necessary for the preservation of health is apparent. The importance of school hygiene in this respect is paramount, because the sanitary redemption of the majority of rural communities must largely be brought about through the practical education of the young in orderliness, cleanliness and the observance of sanitary precautions. Furthermore, the medical inspection of school children is in more or less intimate relation with the homes, which in turn are centers of communities. The educational effect of school hygiene extends through these channels for the betterment of the community health.

There is necessity for uniformity in methods of examination and of classifying the results for collective statistics to be of value. There is need of uniform methods and systematic classification of results before these observations can be of value in studying mental and physical standards, and the effect of changing social conditions on development.

The object of school hygiene, says The Journal of the American Medical Association, is to place the impressionable child in the most favorable environment for physical and mental development and to detect and correct defects which may impede intellectual training. The medical supervision of schools may, however, be further utilized by the state in the determination of the prevalence of communicable diseases, especially in rural communities. The ultimate control of malaria, trachoma, tuberculosis and typhoid fever in these communities must be largely through educational methods. For these reasons the combination of the duties of the health officer with that of the medical supervision of schools appears eminently practicable.

Intensive studies of the mental capacity of American school children, at varying ages, should be undertaken, in widely separated communities, with a view to the establishment of the normal mental standard, thereby rendering impossible the study of the effect of changed social environment on the mental process of the immigrant child, as revealed by similar examinations at the ports of entry.

Paint or Not

Is a horse worth more or less after feed?

Hay and oats are high today; shall I wait today and feed him tomorrow? That's how men do about painting their houses and barns and fences. Paint has been high for several years; and so they have waited. Some are still waiting.

Their property drops a trifle a year and the next job of paint creeps up creeps up creeps up; it'll take more paint by a gallon a year; they don't save a cent, and the property goes on suffering.

Have You Catarrh?

It's a Dangerous Disease—Hyomei is the Effective Remedy.

Catarrh, which is indicated by sniffing, frequent colds and crusts in the nose is a serious disease and if not checked surely spreads to the delicate lining of the all passages, and frequently destroys the hearing. To cure catarrh you must have something that will quickly reach the diseased tissues, kill the germs, and drive out the poison.

Hyomei is just such a remedy. Being a mixture of antiseptic oils that you breathe through a small inhaler its health-restoring medication cannot help going direct to the raw and inflamed lining of the nose and throat, quickly relieving that choked-up feeling, stopping the unclean discharges, and healing the sore spots—you breathe freely. Even the worst cases respond at once.

There is nothing for the treatment of catarrh that is easier, more pleasant or so satisfying as Hyomei. F. W. Jordan, Jr., sells it on the "No-cure-no-pay" plan.—Adv. 2 Oct. 2t.

The Wearing of Glasses by Young People

It is apparent that more children are wearing glasses than used to be the case, and the question frequently occurs as to the cause of this state of affairs. Are children having too heavy demands made on them, or are glasses being ordered when there is no necessity for them. It is undoubtedly the fact that the average child now-a-days has more schoolwork than formerly, and among all classes the eyes of the child are being used for near work to a greater extent than was the case a generation ago. During the growing period of the child, the outer envelope, or supporting tissue of the eyeball, does not attain its full degree of firmness and hardness, and any strain on the focusing muscles has a tendency to make the eyeball stretch. This stretching of the eyeball is really the condition which is commonly known as near-sightedness, and is caused in most instances by strain in reading. Many people believe that a child may be born near-sighted, but this is not the case. Near-sightedness always occurs from strain, and in the great majority of cases can be prevented, or at least kept down to low degrees. It requires no special knowledge to appreciate the fact that a tissue when stretched is weaker than before and is likely to go on stretching, and this is the danger in near-sighted eyes. Such eyes are apt to stretch and grow worse until the child attains its full growth, and the tissues have a chance to become hard and firm, hence, it is during the period of growth that damage to the eyes is most apt to occur.

If the stretching of the eyeball goes beyond a certain point, the delicate nerve tissues inside the eye are apt to become stretched and as a result which they cannot stand, and tears and breaks occur in them with the damage to the sight. These breaks cannot be remedied, nor for that matter can the eye when it is once stretched come back to its normal size. In very high degrees of stretching, even blindness may result. There is a current belief that near-sightedness runs in families, and this, while partly true, is really an unfortunate misconception. Certain families have softer tissues in the eye than others, and their eyes stretch more easily to a certain degree of strain. This should only make such people more cautious to avoid strain and does not by any means imply that it is necessary for such children to be near-sighted. The cause of this strain in the young child is astigmatism. There are other contributing causes, such as too short eyeball, poor general health, which makes the tissues weaker and less resistant, and also the disposition of the child, some children preferring to sit and read all day rather than to go out and exercise in the open air. All these questions must receive proper attention if near-sightedness is to be prevented, but that astigmatism is the principal cause is well-known. This word is becoming rather familiar, and yet its meaning is constantly misunderstood. Many people suppose that astigmatism means a difference in the two eyes, which is entirely wrong. It is an irregularity of the front part of the eye where the curves should be symmetrical but are not. This irregularity or inequality of the curves makes objects appear blurred. Certain lines in the objects looked at seem fairly distinct while certain others are blurred, and this causes the eye to make strong muscular efforts to overcome the blur and get a perfectly clear image. The strain brought about to correct the astigmatic image leads to stiffness and cramps of the muscles with head aches, and in some cases to an actual stretching of the eyeball. The surest way to stop the ever-increasing dangers of near-sightedness is to correct astigmatism by means of properly fitted glasses during the growing period. Recently statistics show that in accordance with this method of treatment, near-sightedness is becoming less. Many children are obliged to wear glasses when reading or during the period of greatest strain, and if the astigmatism is of small amount, they can frequently lay aside the glasses when they have attained their full growth. The greatest amount of strain is during reading or sewing, or any use of the eyes for close work. It is, therefore, much better to allow the child to use glasses during the growing period, at least, and avoid strain, than it is to run the danger of developing a near-sightedness, which is a permanent condition, and which is apt to progress to a point of damaging the vision.

I wish to call attention to parents that it is important to examine their children's report card each month. Be interested enough in the child's school work to see that he makes proper progress, and this can be done only if you examine the card carefully at the close of each month. If the child does not present the card at the close of each month inquire why it has not been presented for examination and for your signature.

It is also necessary that your children do home study, at least the upper grades, and of necessity, the high school pupils. If you have a child in the high school and he is doing no home study you can make up your mind immediately that he is not getting along well with his school work. It is absolutely necessary for him to do home study, considering the amount of work that is required. Do not expect them to get along well if they are leading a butterfly life. They'll not get along well either if they are attending parties two or three times a week, or attending shows every night of the week. Any pupil whose general average falls below the passing grade of 75% is surely trifling away his time.

J. M. Garbrick, Principal.

School Notes

In the studying of languages, both classical and modern, there are several aims to be accomplished. These aims differ in importance in the various kinds of schools. Mental discipline, Aid in English and other language study, Literary Appreciation, and Historical Perspective are all to be secured, especially in the study of Latin.

The first two are very valuable in high school work. Literary Appreciation and Historical Perspective can only be attained by more advanced students and, consequently, appeal to fewer persons than Mental discipline or Aid in the study of English.

Language is the medium by which intercourse between individuals is made possible, and through it, more than through any other science, we receive the best revelations of human thought and human endeavor. It has been said that "an inherent logic is the main characteristic of the Latin language and grammar." While this statement is true, nevertheless the power of reasoning is not cultivated more in studying Latin than the power of correct observation. A student must immediately recognize forms, meanings, and relation of words in a sentence, if he would translate it correctly. Here not only reasoning but careful observation is necessary.

The aid that Latin affords to English is at once made evident, when we remember that English is made up largely of Latin words. People often say, and with much truth too, that they knew no English grammar until they studied Latin.

Since modern languages are also dependent on Latin, they cannot take its place in aiding English. This is especially the case with French and other Roman languages. Nor does Latin serve only as an aid to English; it also helps us to acquire modern languages. The classical student always has the advantage over the non-classical in studying German and French. And in this commercial age when German and French are so very important, this is by no means a small consideration.

Finally, if the study of Latin can teach our boys and girls to reason more correctly, to observe more accurately, and to speak English with greater fluency and elegance, its place in the high school curriculum is unrivaled.

Mary M. Bausch, Instructor.

In the Science Department decided improvement has been made since the close of the last school year. The Physics laboratory has been moved into a larger room and transformed into a general laboratory where all the equipment is kept and all the science instruction given. Much additional equipment has been added facilitating the work in Physical Geography, Botany, Agriculture and Physics. The Physics apparatus especially is now very complete and permits individual laboratory experimentation to be done, thus enabling our graduates to meet the most rigid college entrance requirements.

An exhibition of some of the work of this department may be seen at the County Fair next week.

O. N. Shaffer, Instructor.

Music Course

A systematic course in music has been introduced in the grades this year. It is a course which has been adopted in many of the city schools. The object being to teach the child to read notes just as it is taught to read English. In order to accomplish this a series of five texts has been adopted suited to the needs of the various grades; together with a complete set of Ripley's Music Charts. Stress is also being laid upon writing music in books procured for this purpose.

The various grades are showing a keen interest in the work and with the corps of efficient grade teachers there is no reason why the course should not prove a success.

J. Dale Diehl, Instructor.

Gov. Glynn on the Wilson Policies

With his characteristic gift of hitting the nail on the head, Gov. Glynn, in his speech at Syracuse this week, gave verbal expression to a thought which of all others is undoubtedly the universal and dominant one in the American mind today. Said the Governor:

"While Europe wages a war of desolation, America carries on a campaign of peaceful production. While the farms of Europe are deserted, the American farmer harvests his bountiful crops. While the industries of Europe falter and halt, the hum of wheels in America's factories makes music from the Atlantic to the Pacific. While the unfortunate millions across the ocean rush toward death and destruction the manhood of America, thanks to the steadfastness, the diplomacy and the watchful waiting of Woodrow Wilson, dedicates itself to the task of saving the world from want and famine."

This country knows and acknowledges its debt of gratitude to the steadfastness, the equisopole, the humanity of Woodrow Wilson.—Buffalo Times.

Lloyd K. Beegle of Everett will be pleased to greet his old friends and others attending the Bedford County Fair, where he will be in charge of a display of ladies' coats and suits from A. H. Whetstone's, Everett.—Adv.

Anticipation

The lily's root deep in the earth may lie,
Yet strives to lift its blossoms to the sky;
The lark builds lowly nest in meadows deep,
Yet twilight skies thrill with its song to sleep;
So man may walk firm-footed on the ground,
His heart untrusting till love's heaven is found.
—H. B. T.

Which Foot Walks Faster?

If you will take a pavement that is clear, so that there will be no interference, and walk briskly in the center, you will find that before you have gone fifty yards you have veered very much to one side. You must not make any effort, of course, to keep in the center, but if you will think of something and endeavor to walk naturally you cannot keep a direct line. The explanation of this lies in the propensity of one foot to walk faster than the other, or one leg takes a longer stride than the other, causing one to walk to one side. You can try an experiment in this way by placing two sticks about eight feet apart, then stand off about sixty feet, blindfold yourself and endeavor to walk between them. You will find it almost impossible.

Exclusive to the Last.

An instance of exclusiveness maintained under difficulties is reported from the ladies' cabin of an Atlantic liner. All were sick except one lady and a cat, which wandered uneasily about. The lady ventured to stroke the cat, remarking, "Poor pussy." The cat was inclined to respond and elevated its tail in token of good will, when from a neighboring berth came in choking tones the words, "Excuse me, that is a private cat!"

Wide and Ouida.

Oscar Wilde once asked Ouida what she herself considered the chief feature in her work which won success. "I am the only living English writer," she replied, "who knows how two ducks talk when they are by themselves." It might with truth be said of Wilde that he was the only living English writer who knew how two duchesses talk when they are by themselves.—From Archibald Henderson's "European Dramatists."

Making It Easy.

"Your daughter plays nothing but classical music."
"Yes," replied Mrs. Cumrox. "It is better so. If she plays only classics we can't be sure whether what annoys us is her performance or the composition itself."—Washington Star.

Abrasion of Coins.

By mere waste caused by coins rubbing one against another the civilized world, it is said, loses one and one-quarter tons of gold and eighty-eight tons of silver annually.

The mould of a man's fortune is in his own hands.

Melancholy.

Melancholy may be defined as a state of mind in which a man is so out of touch with his environment that life has lost its sweetness.—Sir William Osler.

Deceivers.

There are people who continue to insist that they would rather have their teeth pulled than sit before a camera; but they are generally the ones who are most impatient to see the proofs.

First Dose Ends Indigestion, Heartburn, or Gas on Stomach

The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from indigestion, dyspepsia or out-of-order stomach is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking Tonoline Tabs.

People with weak stomachs should take Tonoline Tablets occasionally, and there will be no more indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, sour risings, gas on stomach, or belching of undigested food, headaches, dizziness or sick stomach and besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour, out-of-order stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved five minutes after taking Tonoline Tablets.

Go to your druggist and get a $1 box of Tonoline Tablets and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. Tonoline Tabs freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living.

Tonoline Tablets cost $1.00 for a 50 days' treatment. At druggists or mailed by American Proprietary Co., Boston, Mass.—Adv. 25 Sept. 4t.

HECKERMAN LETTER

Nervous People, Cause, Control, Contrast Between Two Neighbors—Some nervousness Natural and Some Acquired.

Pittsburgh, Pa., September 29.—I have just had a talk with a friend at the Seventh Avenue Hotel about nervous people and I should be very glad to have the opinion of some other than your physician on the subject. I believe that nervousness is a very high tension of the nervous system and I also believe that nervous people are as a rule, the happiest of all. Well controlled nervousness is a sign of good breeding in human beings just as it is in the animals. The higher bred the horse is the more sensitive and the more delicate is the animal, also the dog and most other animals. Either of these animals in a tight place or in an accident has much greater fortitude, bearing much pain without showing it or with very much more fortitude than the lower or less nervous animal. This is just what the self-controlled person also does. Then again, if well controlled either in human person or animals, the nervousness stimulates to better work and more lasting work.

Now on the other side, if nervousness is poorly controlled or not controlled at all it is the cause of much more suffering to the individual himself and much more annoyance to his associates. Uncontrolled nervousness causes grouching and irritability to any one. Abrupt movements and loud and uncalled for sayings are the signs of uncontrolled nervousness. I do not think that it is a misfortune to be nervous, for if you have a strong will power you can control it all and in all such instances means merely that the nerves of the body are much like the strings of a violin when it has been tuned ready for action. This kind of nervousness is certainly normal and makes success and happiness. How many of your readers can control their nerves so as to keep quiet when some one has tread on their toes?

A certain degree of nervousness is quite normal neurasthenia in all its forms and is purely abnormal. I believe nervousness to be a purely healthy state, while I believe the neurasthenia is a disease and a very dangerous one at all times. Too slow nervous tension causes poor circulation. Stagnation sets in and the body becomes like a marsh that needs draining. A neurasthenic person is one who cannot or will not exercise while the nervous system is always on the go. Healthy nerves must be surrounded by hearty muscles and to me healthy muscles are the outgrowth of exercise. Melancholy persons and those who always brood over their woes or commit suicide are all, every one of them, in some state of neurasthenia. The person of high strung, delicate organization will under extraordinary pressure become irritable, or putting it milder will show lack of sound judgment, but the reaction is quick. His anger is like a piece of paper over which oil has been poured. The cause removed or being allowed a moment for reflection, his former good showing is restored. While on the other hand the neurasthenic is slow to anger and slower still of recovering from his spurt of rage. Nay "One can never tell what their thoughts will do, In bringing you hate or love; For thoughts are things and their airy wings

Are swifter than a carrier dove." Ella Wheeler Wilcox says "Life is what we make it." For instance, two women, perfect strangers to each other, came to a country resort and rented adjoining cottages. Both cottages were perfectly new. These two women were alike, new comers, and were unacquainted with the residents in the neighborhood. There houses were of similar design and furnishings. They both rented of the same agent and had equal chances for enjoyment so far as the neighbors could see. To show you the difference in the two hostesses, one house became the center of life, pleasure and pleasant entertainment. Passersby found it a drawing card and loved either to pass that way or to sit for a few moments on the veranda chatting with the hostess. Women, men and children were alive, very enthusiastic in every word that they had to say about this new comer, whose smile was like a sunbeam on the darkest of days and whose voice had the tingle of a silver bell. She was gifted with the rare quality of everything good, either in nature or human nature. She it was who passed over lightly whatever was disappointing. She always remembered every pleasant thing heard about anyone and she as quickly forgot whatever was unpleasant.

Now then, what was happening next door? This woman, poor soul, began criticizing the weather, finding fault with the house in which she lived and making sarcastic remarks about her neighbors. She outwardly disapproved of everyone and everything in the town, even habits, their customs and occupations of every one in the place. Then she was, as a natural result of all these fault finding sayings, left quite alone, and oh how she did berate this to her unsocial and discourteous town. No one was ever seen on her veranda and when her husband casually remarked that Mr. and Mrs. were in town she "flew off the handle" declaring that she would not entertain them, signifying her reasons. Her husband did not say another word but kept on washing and wiping the dishes. Never was there a greater illustration of a more direct proof of the mind than in this party.

Life is precisely what we make it. That which we give we receive, not always, however, in the minutest detail but in the aggregate for now and then we are treated nastily by those whom we have treated fairly

Well, if our hearts are full of good will, appreciation and love, if we remember the good in life and pass gently and briefly over the evil we are sure to be rewarded many fold. The fault finding wears very fast on those who aim to do the right thing, and who would sacrifice everything for the fault finder. Let us, therefore, turn the table of fault finding into one of love and kind words, remembering that we do not have long to live and oh how pleasant it would be, life, I mean.

Yours truly,
M. P. Heckerman.
